

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL.

BUSINESS | MANAGEMENT | MANAGEMENT & CAREERS

Another Remote-Work Year Looms as Office-Reopening Plans Are Delayed

Return dates get pushed to September or beyond, keeping firms and employees in 'moment of limbo'

“When it comes to getting 100% of our workers back in the office, sometime in 2022 is when I'm thinking. We are watching developments with herm immunity, and it may be the first quarter of next year until everyone feels safe and comfortable in returning.”

- Khalid Parekh, Founder & CEO of AMSYS and Fair Bank

